Cherry Rizer began her career with the Georgia Department of Labor in 1980 as a secretary. She currently serves as an Employment and Training Consultant training new staff in various program areas, monitoring career center performance through quality reviews, and conducting Unemployment Insurance Seminars for employer groups throughout the State of Georgia. She is well renowned as a resource for assisting employers in resolving Unemployment Insurance issues.

She has been a member of the International Association for Workforce Professionals for 32 years and previously served as a sub-chapter president. Cherry also serves on the newly created Special Workforce Assistance Team (SWAT) where she assists career center management teams with implementing quality and productivity measures.

Julie Grier has worked in the employee benefits industry since 2001. Prior to joining Northwestern Benefit in 2007, Julie was Director of Human Resources for Oglethorpe University. In addition, Julie worked as an Account Manager and then HR Consultant for Oasis Outsourcing (Professional Employer Organization) for five years prior to her position at Oglethorpe University.

Julie has earned the Certified Employee Benefit Specialist (CEBS), the Registered Health Underwriter (RHU), and the Registered Employee Benefit Consultant (REBC) designations. Julie is a graduate of Georgia Southwestern State University with a Bachelor of Arts in Business. Julie received her Professional Human Resources (PHR) designation in 2003.

Mark Butler became Georgia's ninth Commissioner of Labor on January 10, 2011. As the first Republican elected to head the Georgia Department of Labor, Commissioner Butler is committed reshaping the way the state views the operations of a labor department and its relationship to economic development and the private sector.

Each of the programs at the Georgia Department of Labor reflect Butler's dedication to improving the agency's relationships with employers, job seekers, and Georgia's future workforce.

Commissioner Butler, a native of Carrollton, graduated from Auburn University with a degree in Public Administration. For more than 20 years, he worked in his family's small business in Carrollton and during that time served eight years in the Georgia General Assembly.
